Authentic Uzbek Wellness Programming

At ASMALD, wellness is inseparable from culture. The hammam ritual is 2,000 years old. The herbal compress uses plants grown in the Fergana Valley for centuries. The morning tea ceremony in the courtyard is not a performance — it is how Tashkent has always started its day. What draws them here: not luxury for its own sake, but wellness with a story. A Silk Road Scrub, a Scholar's Rest, a Lapis Ritual — each treatment has a name, a history, and a reason. They leave knowing why they feel better, because they understand what they experienced.

Seasonal Positioning: I've done wellness retreats on four continents. ASMALD was the first time the wellness felt like it actually belonged somewhere — rooted in the ground I was standing on, not imported from somewhere else.

The Property: ASMALD Hotel Vignette Collection

94 Total Rooms

Intimate boutique scale — 74 rooms across King, Twin, and Suite categories. Designed for depth of experience, not volume.

$200-350 Target ADR

Positioned between international luxury hotels, Positioned above Crowne Plaza, aligned with Hilton, Movenpick — the first luxury heritage hotel at this price point with authentic Silk Road programming.

Restaurant 130m²

The Modern Dastarkhan — 60 covers. Kitchen with tandoor and kazankebab. Contemporary Uzbek cuisine, communal dining tradition.

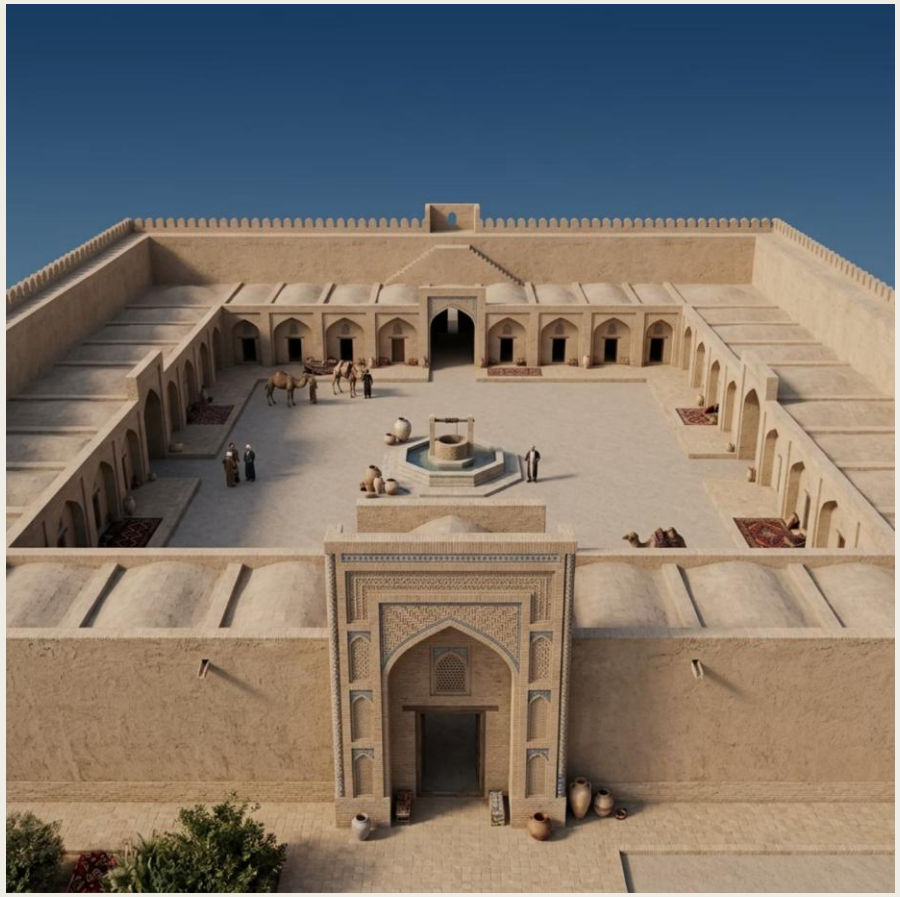

Conference Hall 155m²

The Merchants' Hall — flexible configuration for 20–120 guests. Heritage-inspired design with modern AV technology.

F&B Revenue 30% of total Revenue

F&B as a revenue driver and brand ambassador. The Modern Dastarkhan is not a hotel restaurant — it is a Tashkent dining destination. Open to city residents and guests alike, it positions ASMALD as a cultural hub beyond its 74 rooms. Target: 30% of total hotel revenue.

The Caravanserai Tradition

The Traditional Caravanserai

Built around a central courtyard with private rooms on the perimeter. Ground floor: stables, storage, commerce. Upper floor: private quarters. Central courtyard: communal gathering, storytelling, meals. Free to use — funded by rulers as an act of civic generosity. Every traveller, regardless of origin, received shelter, water, and food.

The Modern Caravanserai

Central courtyard → Hotel heart. Merchants' quarters → Guest rooms. Trading hall → Conference space. Caravanserai well → Water feature. Restaurant & bar. The crossroads spirit lives in every touchpoint. Same principles, different century. A culture of generous welcome — the spirit of the caravanserai, expressed through contemporary luxury.

Interior Design Philosophy

Color Palette

Lapis Blue (primary) · Terracotta · Copper · Sand Beige · Sage Green

Materials: local stone, carved wood, handmade ceramics, suzani textiles, copper accents, ganch plaster details. Philosophy: 'Contemporary Heritage' — not historical recreation but modern interpretation.

Design Principles

- Layered storytelling through materials and patterns
- Warmth through handcrafted textures
- Dramatic light and shadow play (Islamic geometric screens)
- Contemporary silhouettes with traditional surface detail

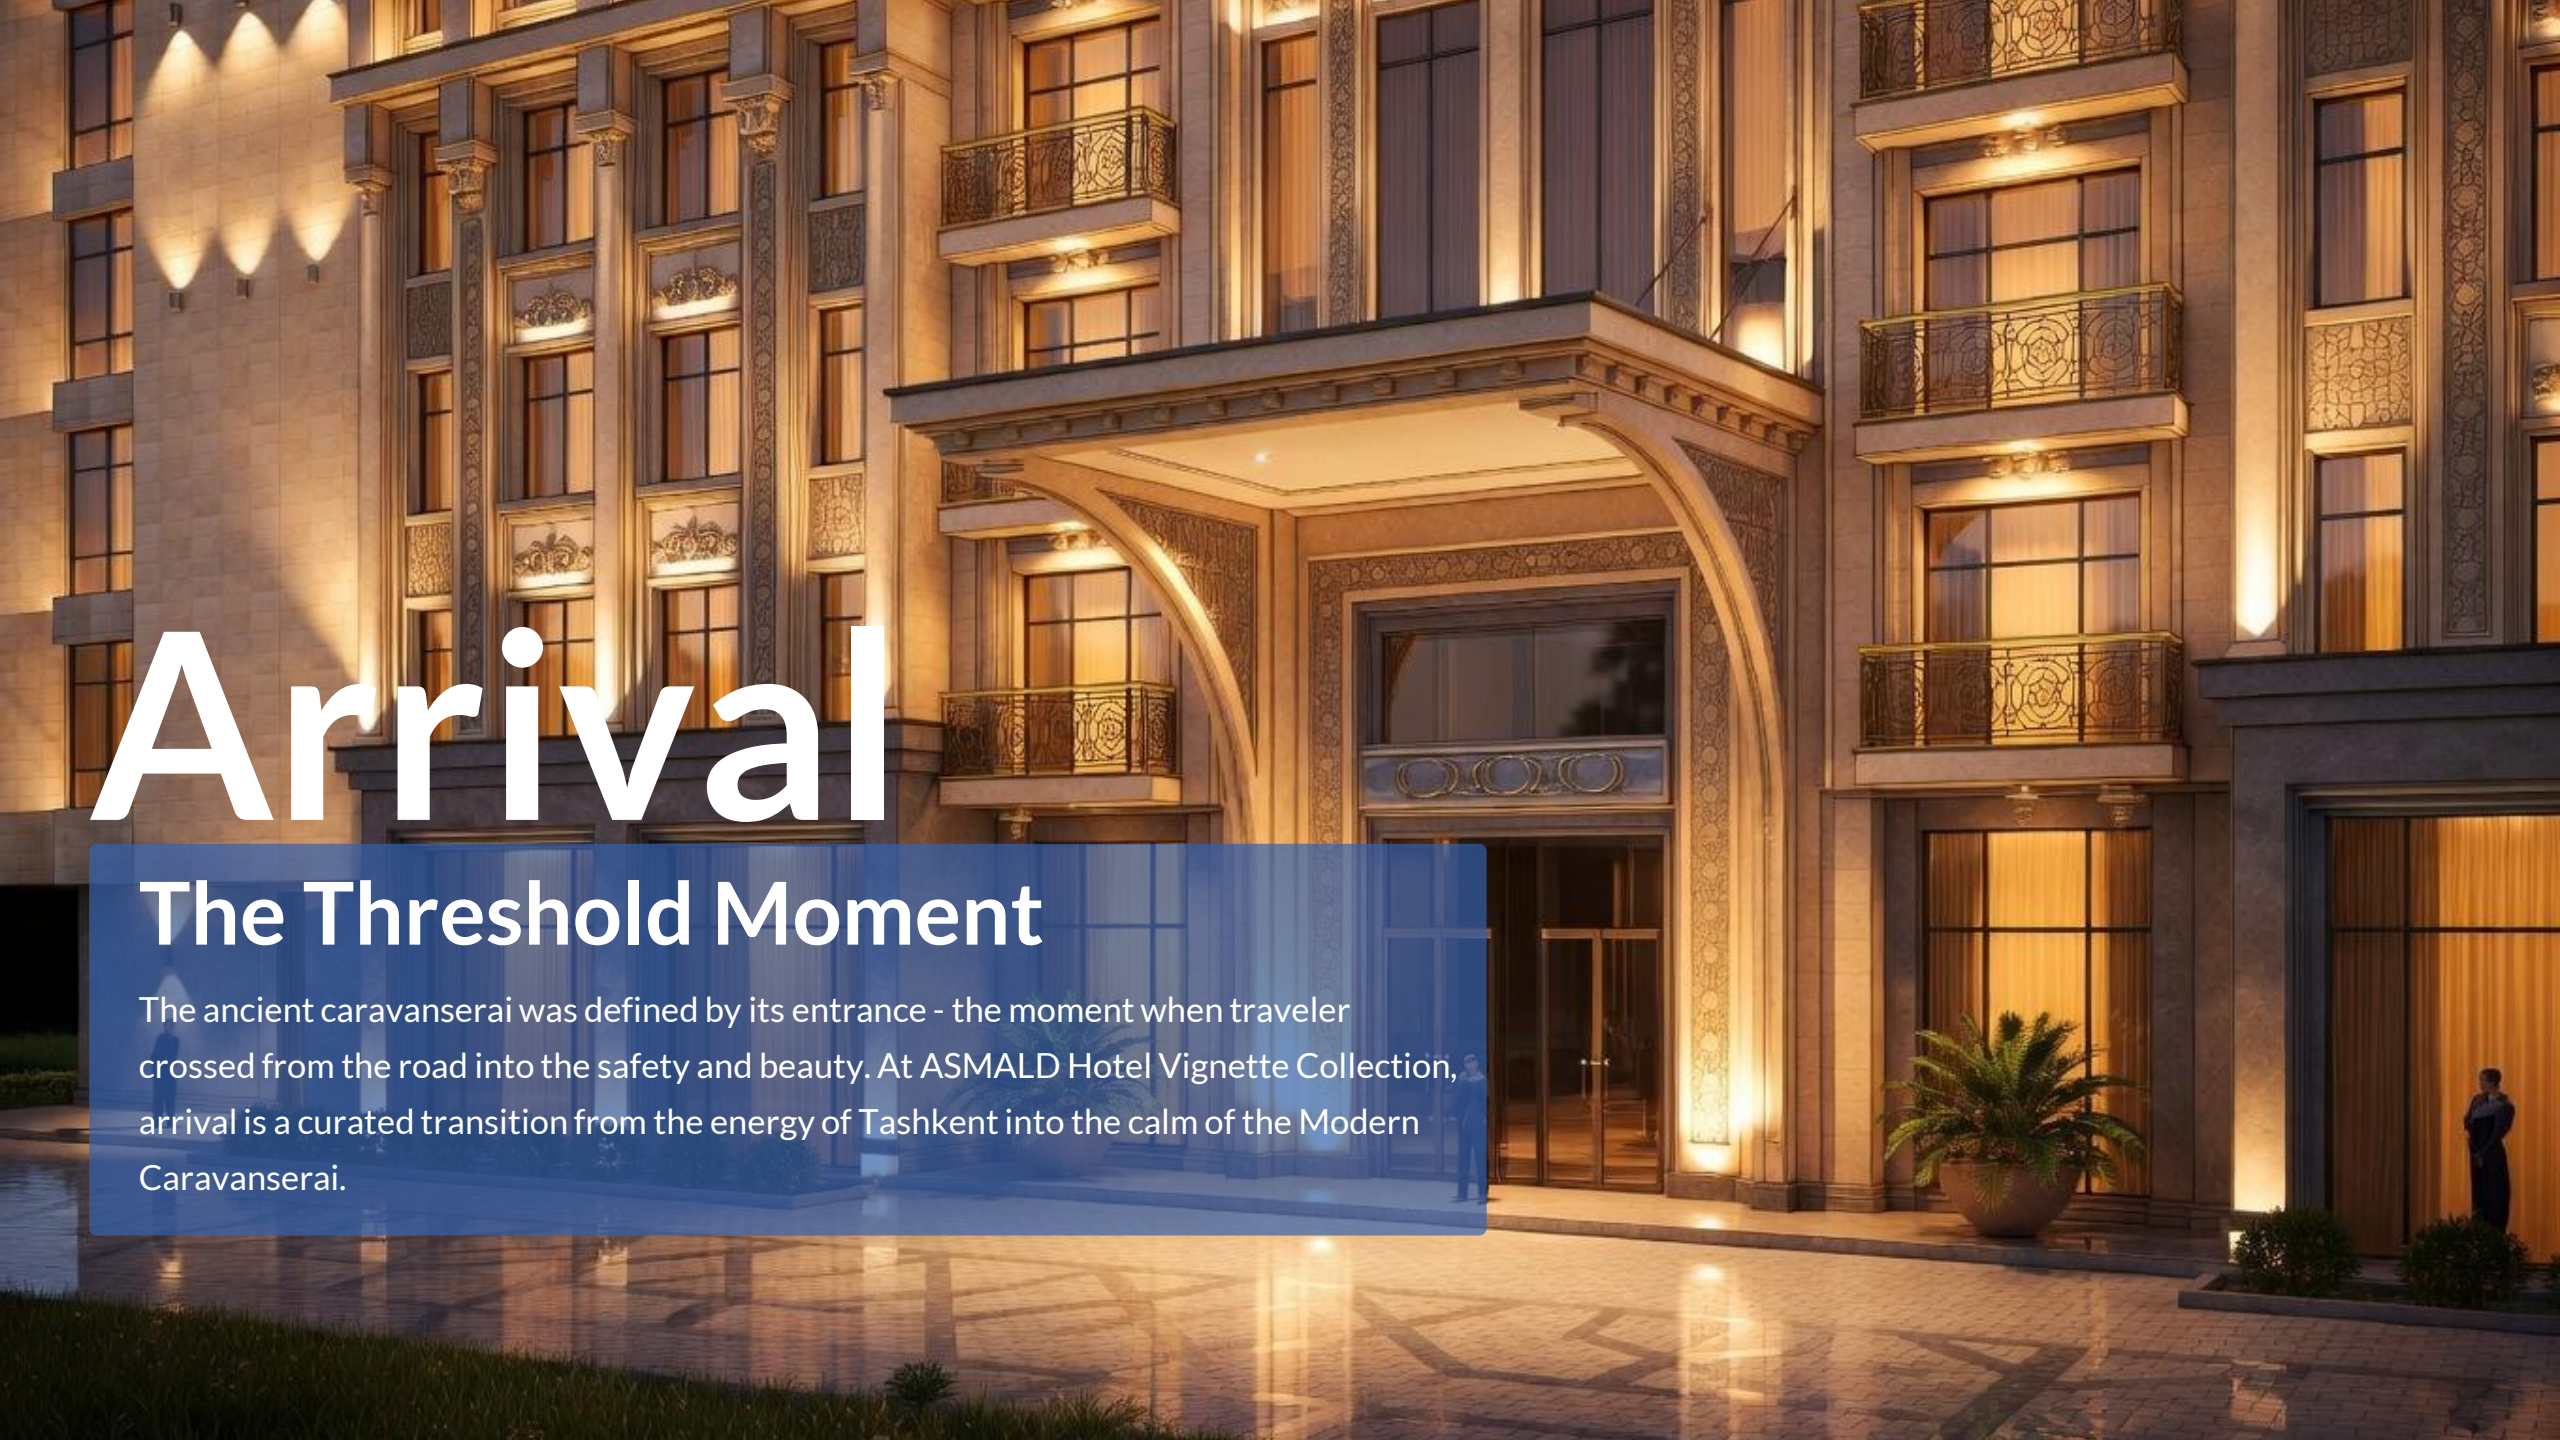

Every material in ASMALD Hotel has a reason. Lapis blue — the colour of Samarkand's domes, the trade stone of the Silk Road. Terracotta — the earth of Uzbekistan's ancient cities. Copper — the metal of Tashkent's bazaar craftsmen. The design principle is not recreation — it is reinterpretation. A guest should feel the weight of history without feeling trapped in it. Ancient patterns on contemporary surfaces. Traditional craft in modern spaces. The past made liveable.

Experience Touchpoints

Every moment tells a story - from the first welcome to the final farewell, the Modern Caravanserai experience unfolds.

Arrival

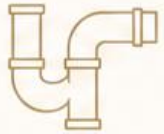

The Threshold Moment

The ancient caravanserai was defined by its entrance - the moment when traveler crossed from the road into the safety and beauty. At ASMALD Hotel Vignette Collection, arrival is a curated transition from the energy of Tashkent into the calm of the Modern Caravanserai.

- Corporate retreats
- Diplomatic functions
- Intimate celebrations

Food and Beverages

F&B - The Art of the Dastarkhan

In Uzbek culture, the dastarkhan - the generous spread of food and hospitality - is more than a meal. It is a statement of welcome, an expression of respect, and a celebration of the land's abundance. ASMALD Hotel Vignette Collection F&B philosophy carries this spirit into every dining moment.

Restaurant: The Modern Dastarkhan (130m2)

Capacity

130m2, approximately 60 covers. Thoughtfully designed to offer both spaciousness and an intimate dining experience.

Design

An open kitchen concept allows guests to witness the artistry of our chefs, with a visible tandoor oven, kazan, and plov preparation. Natural materials abound: custom walnut wood tables, bespoke Rishtan blue ceramic tableware, elegant copper serving pieces, and linen napkins with suzani-inspired embroidery.

Ambience

Warm, inviting, and designed to foster both communal dining and intimate conversations. Seating options include individual tables, a grand communal long table in the traditional dastarkhan style, and semi-private niches for a more secluded feel.

Live Cooking

The vibrant energy of the kitchen is both visible and audible, creating an immersive sensory experience. Guests can observe the precise techniques and fresh ingredients that define contemporary Uzbek cuisine.

Music

A carefully curated playlist enhances the dining journey, seamlessly transitioning from the soft, classical melodies of a dutar in the morning to contemporary Uzbek jazz and modern global sounds in the evening.

The Main Restaurant: CONCEPT: Contemporary Uzbek cuisine - traditional flavors and techniques reimagined with fine dining presentation and international influences reflecting the Silk Road's culinary exchange.

Bar & Lounge: The Caravan's Rest

THE BAR CONCEPT: A sophisticated lounge inspired by the evening rest at a caravanserai, when travelers unwound after a long day.

Design

Intimate seating areas with low lighting, a polished copper bar surface, and a backlit display showcasing Uzbek spirits and wines. Mashrabiya screen dividers create semi-private alcoves, fostering a sense of secluded comfort.

Drink Program

- Signature cocktails infused with Silk Road spices and ingredients (saffron, pomegranate, quince, rose, green tea).
- A curated selection of emerging and notable Uzbek wines.
- Premium international spirits alongside Central Asian craft options.
- Non-alcoholic Silk Road beverages like sharbat, kompot, and herbal infusions.

Food

Thoughtfully prepared bar snacks with an Uzbek twist, including spiced nuts, dried fruits, and miniature samsa, perfect for sharing.

Programming

- Live music evenings featuring traditional instruments (dutar, doira) and modern fusion performances.
- Engaging storytelling sessions hosted by local historians and writers, bringing Silk Road tales to life.

Spa & Hammam Concept

A wellness space rooted in Central Asian hammam traditions, integrated with contemporary spa practices. Not just treatments but a journey of purification inspired by the Silk Road's water and healing culture.

Design

Warm stone and plaster surfaces, fixtures, geometric tile patterns, indirect warm lighting, water features throughout.

Sensory Design

Scent: eucalyptus, rose, dried herbs. Sound: water flow, soft traditional music. Touch: warm stone,, textured materials. Light: filtered through geometric screens, candlelit in treatment rooms.

Facilities

- Hammam (wet steam room with warm stone benches)
- Treatment rooms (2-3)
- Relaxation lounge with tea service
- Small plunge pool or vitality pool (if space allows)

Guest Rooms: Twin Rooms

Design

Same design language as King rooms but configured for flexible occupancy (business travelers, friends, family configurations). Twin beds. Slightly reconfigured furniture layout to optimize space for two guests.

Amenities

Same amenity level as King rooms: individual tea sets, journals, and a full suite of bathroom amenities tailored for each guest.

Target Guests

Ideal for business travelers sharing accommodation, parent-child combinations, or friends traveling together seeking comfort and flexibility.

Twin-Specific Features

- Dual bedside tables with individual lighting and charging ports for convenience.
- Dedicated seating area for in-room meetings or relaxed socializing.
- Thoughtfully designed luggage area to accommodate two travelers.
- Bathroom with dual sink where architectural space permits.
